

All Hazard Logistic Section Symposium

September 20 – 22, 2011
Leavenworth, Washington

Come and be a part of this dynamic and informative symposium designed for members of an All Hazard Incident Management Team in the Logistics Section. This Symposium is the second in a series of eight position-specific symposiums to be conducted in Leavenworth, WA.

Hear what our participants have to say about our recent National Incident Commander Symposium at Snowgrass Lodge:

- “Sharing thoughts and process along with lesson learned has provided me with some valuable tools and re-energized my commitment to my team.”
- “What a great opportunity to meet with peers from around the country to see how similar struggles have been tackled in their areas.”
- “Time well spent—not only were many topics and issues discussed in depth, but new ideas and thoughts that will be part of future change back home.”
- “Learning from others’ experiences [is] invaluable, building and retaining relationships is key.”
- “The Incident Commander Symposium provided the opportunity for highly skilled incident commanders to share their knowledge and experience in a relaxed setting. My attendance was well worth my time and training dollars.”
- “Excellent exploration of systems and processes necessary to create a high reliability Type III Incident Management Team.”
